

Gender Stereotypes & Diversity in Families:

A drama workshop for schools addressing homophobic and transphobic bullying

Saturday, May 13th
DCU Institute of Education
St Patrick's Campus

Registration: 10 a.m.

Workshop: 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Venue: F228, DCU Institute of Education, St Patrick's Campus, Drumcondra

(Follow our ADEI signage)

This practical workshop will use drama to explore family diversity, gender stereotypes, and homophobic and transphobic bullying in an age appropriate way.

The workshop will begin by focusing on early years using a picture book as a stimulus to discuss family diversity. The focus for senior primary classes will be on gender stereotypes and homophobic and transphobic bullying.

Teachers will be offered practical ideas to make their classroom more inclusive, aligning with the Anti-Bullying Guidelines issued by the Department of Education and Skills (2013).

Those working with pupils aged 3 -14 would benefit from this workshop.

Saturday 13th May marks IDAHOT (International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia) and IFED (International Family Equality Day).

www.adei.ie

Register by email: dramaadei@gmail.com

Cost: €30. Two or more €25 each . Full-time students €12

Book your place today!

ADEI would like to thank the Institute of Education, DCU for supporting this event.