ADEI is delighted to announce that we will have a Drama workshop on Saturday November 25th in Marino Institute of Education, Griffith Avenue, Dublin 9.

The workshop will focus on language skills through storytelling and will make links to the new Primary Language Curriculum, both Gaeilge agus Béarla.

Mícheál Curtin will facilitate the workshop, which will be delivered bi-lingually, in consultation with Anna Farren, a primary school teacher with an interest in the Primary Language Curriculum.

Cainteoir Gaeilge is ea Mícheál, agus éascaitheoir drámaíochta a bhaineann úsáid as scéalaíocht to spark dialogue, to teach, and to build community in and outside of schools. His work in Ireland has centered on pleanáil teanga, as well as integrating drama strategies with curaclam na Gaeilge in schools. He currently runs a Theatre-in-Education program at the Creative Arts Team in New York City.
